

SCHOOL OF ENGLISH

CREATIVE WRITING
TUESDAY READINGS

presents

Marilyn Hacker

6 October 2009

6.00 pm

Peter Brown Room

(in the Missing Link, Darwin College)

Author of over a dozen collections of poetry, numerous translations and books of criticism, world-renowned and prize-winning writer Marilyn Hacker divides her time between the US and Paris.

I think of her magnificent virtuosity in the face of all the strictures to be silent, to name her fears and her desires, and in the process, to name ours. Let's face it, no one writes about lust and lunch like Marilyn Hacker. -- Jan Heller Levi

£2 entry
(pay at the door)