

Learning to be English is the expression of an English/Irish, working/middle class, poor/rich childhood.

'I am two people; I can switch between Irish and English, poor and better off, working and middle class, council house kid and homeowner. This is what happens when you learn to be English.'

For further copies of this pamphlet, please contact medwaymaria@hotmail.com

© Maria McCarthy 2006

£4

Learning to be English

by
Maria McCarthy

Woodcut by Maggie Drury

Stories, poems and recollections of an English/Irish childhood